Capital requirements 2020 - 2025

Comments

- The MREL add-on will exclude the systemic risk buffer in the Faroe Islands as well as the Danish countercyclical buffer
- The MREL add-on is to be phased in from 2020-2025 and have effect from January 1 in the relevant years
- Higher capital requirements will render fewer projects attractive to finance and lending growth is less likely to be value accretive
- Intense focus on efficient capital allocation:
 - Strengthen cooperation with InnovFin and EKF to reduce REA

Capital requirements based on comments from the Danish FSA¹

BANKNORDIK

1) A systemic risk buffer of 3% of Faroese exposures is weighted based on REA per country.

Likewise, the countercyclical buffer est. at 2% only applies to Danish exposures and is therefore weighted accordingly.

Outlook 2020 – challenging market conditions

Business volume growth

- Using EKF and InnovFin to support corporate lending growth
- Robust growth in mortgage brokerage volumes, bank loans to personal customers flat
- Increased insurance income and assets under management
- Risk-weighted assets flat

Operating income flat

- Continued pressure on lending rate offset by negative rates on some deposits
- Lower fee income from loan conversions balanced out by adjustments to loyalty programme and other measures
- Increased insurance premiums to counter normalised claims level

Modest cost reduction

- Increased staff costs due to salary increases
- Savings on staff costs due to increased efficiency and process optimisation
- Continued increases to IT costs
- Savings from organisational adjustments announced in December 2019

Impairment charges to remain at a low level

Net profit expected at DKK 100-150m (2019: DKK 207m)
